If I compile the game with iOS4 it is showing fine, but if I compile it with iOS5 it is not showing the CCTMXTiledMap. It is just an blank black screen. The code is the same, but it should work on iOS4 and 5. I use this c++ guide as a template: Any ideas on how to solve this? I really don't have any ideas and am unable to find something about this problem. A: If your application is a universal app, you need to set the iphone 5 & iphone 4.3 to different value for UI_APPLICATION_TARGET_OS.

The Barnes Foundation will re-open on Thursday. However, the museum plans to keep its gates closed and avoid visitors altogether until it can secure an effective measure of security for its art.

That action is being taken by David Rubenstein, the president of the Foundation that owns the 14th-century art collection that has been at the heart of an ownership dispute with the neighboring community that houses a public library. The Foundation was forced to shut down on Tuesday after a night of repeated protests, heated arguments and rocks being thrown at the building. About 60 law enforcement officers were on hand. As of Wednesday morning, Foundation staffers were conducting what a spokeswoman for the National Park Service called "extensive cleaning." Visitor numbers are estimated to have reached 20, 648931e174

However I can SSH to the Azure VM with the same public key I have an Azure VM, that I want to clone from using my local machine. I followed the instructions here: and in order to clone it, I followed the instructions here: I used the openssh-server package that comes with Windows 10, I guess I do have this package. However, after I successfully cloned my VM, I cannot SSH into it. The SSH connection seems to work fine, because I was able to login into it with the same public key (via Putty on the Windows machine I use to connect to the VM) Why can I SSH, but not use the cloned VM? A: You should configure your copy of the VM with a new public key. When you clone the VM, you do that automatically, but you need to manually update the SSH key in the newly cloned VM. To do that, go to the Azure portal and click on the VM you want to edit. Click on the Settings tab. In the VM Settings section click on "Keys". The SSH key will be shown in the "New SSH Key" section. Copy the key to your local machine, and then do a new `ssh-add -K` Copy the key to your local machine. Add it to your ~/.ssh/known_hosts. Paste the string
